

03.05.2012

Better Prognosis for Breast Cancer in Germany

Excellent treatment results testify to high quality of care at Heidelberg University Hospital's Breast Center / First publication of prospectively collected data in Germany

03.04.2012

Newly discovered direct connection in the brain synchronizes spatial orientation centers

Two regions of the brain which are considered to be pivotal for spatial orientation and memory are directly connected with each other via long projections of inhibitory neurons. This is reported in the journal Science by a team headed by Professor Hannah Monyer, who leads a collaborative department ...

22.12.2011

Severe congenital disorder successfully treated in a mouse model for the first time

Adding a sugar to water during pregnancy protects embryos from defects/Heidelberg University Hospital researchers? results published in Nature Medicine

18.11.2011

Protection from severe malaria explained

Defective hemoglobin prevents the establishment of an important transport system of the malaria parasite in infected blood cells/Heidelberg researchers? results published in Science

04.11.2011

Protein causes varicose veins

Heidelberg scientists develop model for studying varicose veins / Results published in renowned journal