

Fatema Rasul, MBBS, MPH, PhD Candidate

Research Areas of interest: Chronic Non Communicable Diseases, Health Economics, and Geriatric Health

Fatema is trained as a medical doctor and holds a MSc in Public Health. She has worked as a Senior Research Associate and as a Lecturer in the James P. Grant School of Public Health, BRAC Institute of Global Health, BRAC University for over two years. She has experience in working closely with BRAC health programs, and has collaborated to the development of a health insurance product to be launched by BRAC.

Fatema joined the Health Economics and Health Financing Group in March, 2014, as a Doctoral Student. She is the recipient of a USAID PhD fellowship. Her doctoral thesis applies mixed methods to assess access to care and household expenditure Chronic Non Communicable Diseases in Bangladesh.